Annexation of Red River to the States.

The political and commercial evils under which the Red River Settlement has long labored, combined with the isolation of the country, has for a number of years created a feeling in favor of annexation to the States. Latterly it appears the annexation fever has broken out anew, and now rages with more intensity than ever. The Legislature of Minnesota, seconding the well-known sentiments of the people, has lately expressed itself favorable to revising the map of the United States, and that State in particular, by annexing the Settlement—of course, that is, if it is the wish of the people—with England's consent. The anxiety of the Minnesotans to foster the secession of Assiniboina—the official name of Red River Settlement—is purely one of interest. It wants to draw the entire trade of the settlement through St. Paul's. The Northwest Express Company are now sending goods through from St. Paul to Fort Garry for five cents per pound, and carrying passengers at $30 and $50. A considerable quantity of merchandise is now carried by this route. On the other hand the Hudson Bay Company who govern the Settlement, draw their goods via Hudson's Bay, on an annual ship from England. The route from Fort William, at the head of Lake Superior, to Fort Garry is not practicable for merchandise—at least it is more difficult than either of the other routes—so much more so in fact, that it is not used—not even traveled since the route via St. Paul has been opened.

Canada has expended considerable sums in exploring the Fort William route and even laid out a village there but as yet no practical result has been attained. The favorite route for communicating with the outside world is the road via St. Paul; and as neither Canada nor England has done anything to rid Assiniboina of the Hudson Bay Company's Government, the settler's sympathies with the States, and favor annexation to their nearest neighbor, Minnesota, through whom they draw supplies. It is not a matter of wonder that a people so badly used should harbor the idea of annexation; but still such an idea is the climax of folly. Neither the consent of Canada, nor Pacific colonies, nor England would be given to such a project; and Assiniboina is too insignificant to annex itself against their consent. Out of the agitation now going on, there may possibly arise good to the settlement. Either England may put in force an act to organise it into a colony—an act passed whilst Sir Bulwer Lytton was in power; or the advantages of the Northwest Territory to Canada may induce that province to come to their aid; but beyond opening up the route from Fort William, nothing need be expected from that quarter. The only hope of the settlers for improving their condition, either politically or industrially, lies in the discovery of gold on the Saskatchewan, Peace River, and in Cariboo, and in the effect which the annexation resolutions of the Minnesota Legislature will have in quickening the movements of the Imperial Government, in erecting the settlement into a Crown colony. The Nor'-Wester, of a late date—the only paper published in Assiniboina, discourses in the following strain:

"This gold discovery then, is one gleam of light shed upon the future of this country. Something else excites hope just now. The very wide spread felling of annexation to the United States, taken in connection with the formal move of the Legislature of Minnesota in response to the annexation sentiment here, will go far to awaken the Home Government to their duty. The Minnesota Memorial to Congress is the highest tribute yet paid to this country, and has not been without its effect in quickening our growing Americanism. The gold discoveries and the annexation movement—both of which are stark realities—do, in our opinion, warrant the expectation that something will soon be done. Let the change come by all means. It will satisfy the people, it will then benefit the country, and will return to Britain a most valuable territory—valuable in its extent and resources, and valuable as the connecting link between Canada and British Columbia."

Assiniboina is not wanting, however, in loyalists to stem the tide of secession. Archdeacon Cochrane has spoken out on the subject, of whom the Nor'-Wester makes the following brief notice:

"Anybody acquainted with this venerable clergyman will readily admit that he is a sterling patrician and an indefatigable, self-sacrificing missionary. On reading the Nor'-Wester in which the Minnesota memorial to Congress appeared, his ire was kindled, and it found expression in pungent sarcasm. 'Let the annexation movement go on,' said the Archdeacon, 'and let there be a general show of hands for and against, and then we shall be able to say how many straight jackets we require.' And then passing from sarcasm to argument, he mentioned the overwhelming indebtedness of the United States, their high import duties, &c., as fatal objections, and added—'We can import goods from England by Hudson's Bay and sell at such prices as would soon starve out all the Yankees of the country. No man in the country is more entitled to the appellation of pater patriæ than the Archdeacon of Assiniboina, and we hope the first time he honors us with a visit, he will address the people in public meeting assembled, on the condition and prospects of the country. Mr. Cochrane is a stern, unflinching, uncompromising loyalist—and this is saying a great deal, in these degenerate times, when a time-serving policy prevails so generally.'

The tide of immigration that will soon set across the continent via Red River, will annex Assiniboina to the rest of British America quicker than aught else. It will carry with it elements of progress that will soon outdo the Hudson Bay Company. But till that tide sets in, neither the scarecrow of annexation to the States, nor aught else will alter to any great extent the condition of the Settlement. We sympathize, however, with the struggles of the simple-minded settlers of that oasis in the desert; and when we look into the future—see British America, the polar star of the American continent—the Russia of America—exerting a more powerful influence on the future of this continent than Russia does on Europe—British America from the Atlantic to the Pacific, united and free—peopled by enlightened Anglo-Saxon race, controlled by an empire with laws and a pure religion—an empire with 3,500,000 square miles of territory—we cannot but condemn in unmeasured terms the policy of the Imperial Government that persists in keeping the provinces separate, and locking out from civilization and free institutions the 2,500,000 square miles of territory which constitute the Hudson's Bay Company's possessions.

THE BRITISH COLONIST

Thursday Morning, June 5, 1862.

HOW TO GET A "HARD CUSTOMER" OFF YOUR BOOKS.—Yesterday a little incident occurred on Yates street, in front of the Bank of British North America, the mere recital of which makes us imagine that a ton of ice is running down our back—it's so cool. Y., a Victoria merchant, meets Z., an up-country merchant. Z. is indebted to Y., and tries to avoid him. Y. won't be thrown off in any such way, so grasps Z.'s arm, saying, "How you, old fellow; when did you come down?" Z. replies, "How do? hope you're well; how's your wife and all the children?" Y. (sullenly) I ain't got no wife and, if I had, wouldn't be bothered with children. Ahem! by the way, Z., there's a little account against you on our books—been there a long while—time it was settled—been standing twelve months. Z.—I know, yes; that's all right; call next time when I come down—settle it. Y.—Oh, that's played out; you've been going to settle it every month for the past ten. It won't do sir, we want money and we must have it, sir. Z.—Well, but you can't get blood out of a stone nor sugar out of a cow's tail—I ain't got a cent, and, what's more, I won't have any till I get remittance from Cariboo. Y. (waxing wrath) Very well, if you force me to proceed to extremities, you'll regret it. Pay what you owe us and take your custom elsewhere. We don't want such men as you to buy goods of us—we'd sooner keep them in our store and look at 'em. This bill must be paid—it shall be paid, why, sir, (raising his voice) I'll ruin your credit—I'll offer it for sale at half-price—interest included. I'll—I'll—Z. (perfectly shocked) What's the amount of your bill, did you say? Y.—It was originally fifty five dollars—interest added at two and a half per cent per month for 12 months makes it just seventy-two dollars and four bits. Z.—And for seventy-two dollars and four bits you'll take thirty-six dollars and a quarter? Y.—I'll do it, sir, and sign a receipt in full—just to get you off our books. Z.—(Putting his hand in his pocket, drawing forth a well filled purse and counting out the necessary amount from among the coins)—Sign your bill, sir—receipt it—here's your money! Y. looked astonished and appeared as if he'd rather back out. Z. insisted and called on two or three bystanders, who had been attracted to the spot by the loud talk of the creditor, as witnesses to the agreement. Y. remonstrated, but finally "caved," and, walking to one of the granite pillars of the Bank, received the bill in full, and handing it over to his hard customer, received the fifty cents on the dollar, pulled his hat down over his eyes, travelled quickly towards Wharf street, but not before his late debtor had time to shake his purse and bawl after him, "I say, Y., if you know any more of my creditors who want to settle on the same terms, send 'em along!"

QUOTE AN EXCITEMENT.—Capt. Nagle's announcement that a fine steamboat would be dispatched to Stickeen River, provided one hundred passengers were obtained at $25 each, created quite a healthy little excitement in and around the shipping office yesterday, the vicinity of which was at times crowded with parties seeking information as to the extent and richness of the new gold fields. Before night 60 names were booked for the passage, and we doubt not that the requisite number will be obtained by this evening. The trip will be a short and pleasant one. To judge from Choquette's account, the chances are all in favor of the diggings being rich and extensive, and a glance at the map will satisfy the most sceptical adventurer that "grub" may always be had on the Stickeen River at prices not exceeding those on the Lower Fraser. No such calamity as a scarcity need ever be feared, and if the diggings prove a humbug—of which there is hardly a possibility—a very few dollars will land the party safely in Victoria again. Stickeen River offers greater inducements to prospectors with small means than Cariboo at present.

THE SMALL POX.—Mr. Sofall, in charge of the Indian small pox patients at the Reserve, reported 27 cases yesterday and three deaths. Mr. Smith, Sept. of Police, was compelled to take a portion of the force and order the interment of several bodies left lying on the ground. An Indian was struck by lightning yesterday, i. e., he drank too much tangle-leg and soon after succumbed to its influence. Three deaths of young Indian men, from an unknown complaint, are also reported by Mr. Sofall. They came in very faint and weak from town, and all died within a few hours of each other. They exhibited no symptoms of the terrible disease which is destroying their brethren. Out of 100 Indians who encamped at Ogden's Point four weeks since, about 15 remain alive, and but few of the Chinamen who were sent to the Island near Cadboro' Bay are left. A report prevails that the disease has attacked the Nanaimo Indians.

THE INCORRIGIBLE.—Butts—the incorrigible and irresponsible John—has again fallen into the hands of Sergt. Blake, of the Police force, who yesterday arrested him for beating an Indian. John has been troubled with a hoarseness for several days back, so that he has been unable to "cry," and has adopted the expedient of employing an Indian to accompany him in his peregrinations bearing aloft a large placard on which is inscribed the nature of the business he desires to advertise. John is a great case, and his habits require a kind of moral tinkering from the magisterial hands of Mr. Pemberton at least once a month.

FLOUR.—Nearly 3000 barrels of flour are now in the market, but prices have not declined since Saturday last. Considerable shipments are made to British Columbia by every conveyance, and have a tendency to render flour firm. An inferior brand may be obtained for $8 50 per barrel, but superior sells readily at $9 50 @ $10, and extra at $10 50. The demand is steady.

FOR THE STAGE COMPANY.—Twenty horses, for the stage company on the Harrison-Lillooet route, will be forwarded by Mr. J. Robertson Stewart to New Westminster on the next trip of Eliza Anderson. Three large wagons, for the use of the same company, were recently sent from here to Douglas.

A STEAMBOAT FOR STICKEEN.—It is rumored that the steamer Flying Dutchman will be dispatched to Stickeen River in the course of a couple of weeks, and run on that stream from the mouth as far up as navigable.

" The steamer Enterprise, with a good freight and a large number of passengers, left yesterday afternoon for New Westminster.

" At the close of the present year it is estimated that France will have 90 iron-clad vessels afloat.

" The House of Assembly will meet at 3 p. m. to-day.

" The Eliza Anderson is due to-day from Olympia, W. T.

IN THE HARBOR.—The U. S. revenue cutter Joe Lane arrived in our harbor yesterday morning.

" See Mr. Backus' advertisement of auction this day, at 11 o'clock.

Letter from Cariboo—Astonishing yield of Steel's and Cunningham's Claims.

The following letter was received by a gentleman of this city from a miner en route to his claim on Lightning Creek, and has been placed at our disposal:

FORKS QUESNELLE, May 17, 1862.
DEAR JOE.—I arrived on the 13th, after a very severe trip. I was sick all the way up, but am now well. I am sorry to inform you that Brooks has met with a terrible accident; he had his hand torn all to pieces, from the centre to the end of his finger. He was trying to catch Jack's horse, and the hook in the halter caught in his hand, and tore it all to smash. Brooks and Jack are here, and will go up with me. Grub is very scarce here, and much more so in the mines. There is plenty to be had for cash, such as it is; the rates here are: Flour, $1 25; Bacon, $1 50; Beans, Coffee, and Sugar, 90; Coffee, none. The rates at Williams' Creek are: Flour, $1 25; Bacon, $1 50; Beans, Coffee, and Sugar, not to be had at any price. No gum boots in this part of the country; they have offered $75 for a pair in the mines, but could not get them at that. Bill Cunningham's claim is paying four pounds of gold per day to the hand; Steel's equally well. They are the only ones who are at work at present. The weather is very warm, and there is very little snow. The season will be a month earlier than usual, that is, the creeks will fill much sooner than heretofore. I am in good health and spirits, and hope you enjoy the same blessing. George Parkinson, Crowley, and Gannon, have not arrived yet, but will be here to-day or to-morrow. They say the roads are very bad from here up. I am informed that it takes a day to go four miles on Lightning Creek from what they call the Meadows to my claim. Ned Campbell, I am told, has struck diggings on Willow Creek. All the boys are well.

THOS. NOLAN.

TRYING TO SHIFT THE RESPONSIBILITY.—Mr. Franklin says that, if required, he will receive the invoice of ladies from England with open arms, but would, nevertheless, prefer to shift the responsibility to younger and abler shoulders. Nobody said anything about the "responsibilities." None are expected, and if any do come, surely the last person they will be entrusted to the care of would be an old bachelor. Take care of the ladies, Mr. Franklin, and let the "responsibilities" take care of themselves.

OPPOSITION.—There is likely to be an opposition steamship line established between New York and San Francisco via Nicaragua. The establishment of such a line would not only reduce fares, but it might also cause the employees of the present line to cease their ill-treatment of passengers, which has lately become almost unbearable. Anything that promises an improvement to the existing arrangement will be had with pleasure by all classes.

STICKEEN RIVER EXPRESS.—We learn that Mr. Barnard, of Barnard's Fraser River Express, will send a messenger North on the steamer shortly to be sent to Stickeen by J. Nagle & Co.

SAILLED.—The bark Architect and N. S. Perkins and brig E. W. Seyburn have sailed for the Sound to take in cargoes of lumber for San Francisco.

POLICE COURT.—Two drunks were attended to in this court yesterday and a wholesome fine and a day in prison was administered from the Bench.

" Among the passengers booked for Stickeen yesterday were a gentleman and his wife, residents of this city.

" A new debtor was sent to prison last night.

DUELLING IN FRANCE.—The tribunal of correctional police was occupied the other day in trying M. Stevens, picture dealer, on a charge of having wilfully wounded M. Gerome, the painter, in a duel fought at Chatillon-sur-Seine on the 19th of December last; likewise M. Willems and M. de Knyff, seconds to M. Stevens, and Captain Maldan and M. de Requin, seconds of M. Gerome, were charged with being accessories before the fact. All the parties were in court except M. de Requin, who was said to be in Egypt. The circumstances immediately preceding the duel were as follows: On the evening of the 18th of December M. Stevens went to the club of the Rue de Chevalier to demand satisfaction of M. Gerome for an offence received at his hands, which was refused; and, being greatly excited, he then assaulted M. Gerome, who at last consented to a meeting on the following day at Chatillon. Seconds were accordingly selected by both parties, and it was decided that the duel should take place with pistols, at thirty paces; also that M. Stevens, as the aggrieved party, should fire first. At the first shot M. Gerome fell, the ball having passed through the muscles of the arm and then grazed the chest near the arm-pit, without injuring any important organ. The wound soon healed, and M. Gerome is now perfectly recovered. It was admitted by all parties that the duel had been conducted according to the code of honor accepted in France, and after hearing the Imperial advocate, who condemned duelling as a barbarous usage which ought to be put down by the strong arm of the law, the tribunal condemned M. Stevens to pay a fine of 500, and all the other defendants a fine of 250, each. The judge made an harangue upon the brutality and barbarity of the feudalism—duelling—and wound up by condemning the defendants to pay a fine of a pauper pound.

A COUPLE OF PARABLES FROM 'OLD KNICK.'

First.—Lazy concluded that half a loaf was better than no bread, and not being very well breaded himself, he concluded to try it on the small.

So he went to Charity and asked for a cracker.

Charity took up the poker and gave him a swipe over the cocca-nut.

"Ouch! good woman," said he, "that hurts. Don't do it again some more."

"Well," said Charity, "you asked for a cracker. Wasn't that one?"

"Yes," replied Lazy, "I asked for bread and you gave me a stun."

Second.—One day Lazy, finding himself in the dark with an empty lamp, went to Political Economy.

"Well," quoth she.

"I can't well," he replied.

"I always thought you did," she answered.

"What am I expected to do?"

"A little ile," he murmured. "And I kin pay for it. Listen! Why is kerosene like a chimby afire? Because it's a burning flue-ed. There now, fill my lamp."

As Political Economy replenished the implement, a drop of the illuminating substance fell into the middle of a half empty wash-basin.

"Lazy," said she, "why is that ere drop like Blackwell's, where you pass your summers?"

"Nary know," he answered.

"Because it's a lie And surrounded by water."

And Lazy went out and hanged himself with a yard of macaroni.

TO CURE DIPHTHERIA.—A gentleman who has administered the following remedy for diphtheria, informs us that it has always proved effectual in affording speedy relief: Take a common tobacco pipe, place a live coal within the bowl, drop a little tar upon the coal, and let the patient draw smoke into the mouth and discharge it through the nostrils. The remedy is safe and simple, and should be tried whenever occasion may require. Many valuable lives may be saved, our informant confidently believes, by prompt treatment as above.

A DUNIOUS STORY.—A London correspondent of the Detroit Advertiser writes the following very dubious account of the cause of the absence of the Prince of Wales from England at the present time:

His absence does not spring from the Prince's desire of seeing foreign countries, it is not from his approaching marriage with a Danish Princess, nor does it arise from his love passages at Windsor; but the reasons for his absence are now sufficiently manifest. The Prince of Wales is already married; the ingenuous eldest son of Her Majesty is, at the present moment, and, indeed for the last six months has been, married to a heart subject.

The enthraller of the Prince's heart and recipient of his troth is a beautiful young Hibernian lady whom he met and fell in love with during the period of military training at the Curragh of Kildare, Ireland, where his Royal Highness had appropriated to him, a little removed from the main line of tents which formed the encampment, neat hut with a pretty little garden attached to it. Though he had everything to make him comfortable there during the idle days and long evenings, he sometimes caressed off to see some of the leading gentry of Kildare, whose demesnes fringe the great plain on which the Prince was stationed. To one of these houses in particular, and which was inhabited by a family of ancient and almost historical standing, his horse's head was oftenest turned; and his visits became so frequent that they ceased to be formal.

Nothing was suspected by the Prince's mentors, until one afternoon two young ladies galloped over the green sward, pulling up in front of the Prince's hut, and the alacrity with which he came out to meet them, and his particular manner to the younger one, attracted the attention of an officer in high rank who happened at the moment to be calling on the Prince, and who, being a veteran in love as well as in war, fancied he saw something more than the mere politeness of a young Prince to a young lady. The visits were repeated, and they were also seen riding about the country. However, to cut a long story short, in a certain little church, not many miles from Newbridge (the next town to the Curragh) there were, one morning, united in matrimony two young people, one of whom was the lady in question, and the other the Heir Apparent to the throne of Great Britain, the only other persons being present, besides the clergyman, brother officer of the Prince and the bride's brother.

The late lamented Prince Consort was made aware of the fact just before quitting Ireland, when they visited the lakes of Killarney in the autumn. By the Royal Marriage Act I need scarcely say, such a union would be unlawful, but so wrapped up in this beautiful Irish bride is the Prince, that this journey of his to the East, which was determined upon before the Prince Consort's death, was suggested by the latter as a means of weaning him from "his foolish attachment," upon the principle of "out of sight out of mind." But nothing will do; this young Prince's "heart travelled fondly turns" towards a certain old man standing on the confines of the Curragh and which hold "what is dearer to him than his future crown"—the fair object of his thoughts almost daily receiving a letter from under his youthful and royal lover's hand.—Detroit Advertiser.

THE FRENCH PLUNDER FROM CHINA.—The Paris correspondent of the Daily News says,—"You may remember the indignant denial of the Moniteur and other French journals of the sack of the Emperor of China's summer palace by the French army. The original statements of the English correspondents on that subject were, however, completely borne out, and from time to time paragraphs have appeared in the departmental papers about the large fortunes brought home by private soldiers of the Chinese expedition. Further evidence, if any were wanting, is afforded by a curious paragraph in the Moniteur de l'Armee. An officer of rank, whose name is not mentioned, but which I lately saw in the advertising columns of the Paris newspapers, has announced the sale by auction of "a curious Chinese and Japanese museum, consisting in great part of articles taken from the summer palace of Yuen-Ming-Yuen, the property of a superior officer who belonged to the Chinese expedition." The officer in question, who probably fancied that the scandal of the affair had entirely blown over, has made a miscalculation. The Moniteur de l'Armee states that the Emperor, considering the speculation of this nature disgraceful to the character of the officer and injurious to the dignity of the army," has ordered him to be removed from active service. The moral of this is, that French officers with plunder from China must sell it privately or keep it for their own use.

The base of the Broderick monument will be of Folsom granite, and the other portions of California marble, from the quarry of Grant & Divine, at Columbia, Tuolumne County. The cost of the work, exclusive of the statue, will be $8000. The statue will cost probably between $2000 and $3000—perhaps more.

General Tidghman, the rebel commander at Fort Henry, has been sent to the Illinois penitentiary at Alton. After his capture he made many insolent demands, and became so troublesome that his confinement became necessary.

HEALTH FOR A SHILLING!

Holloway's Pills.

Headaches, Bile, Loss of Appetite, and Lowness of Spirits.

These Pills require no interruption of business or pleasure; they act mildly on the bowels, strengthen the stomach, and promote a healthy action of the liver. They are good for the nervous system, and will remove the griping, & purify the blood, cleanse the skin, brace the nerves, and invigorate the whole system. They effect a truly wonderful change in debilitated constitutions, as they create a healthy appetite, correct indigestion, remove bile, giddiness, headaches, and palpitation of the heart.

WEAKNESS and Debility.

In cases of debility, languor, and nervousness generated by excess of any kind, whether mental or physical, the effect of these Pills is the highest degree of bracing, renovating, and restorative. They drive away the griping, & purify the blood, cleanse the skin, brace the nerves, and invigorate the whole system. They effect a truly wonderful change in debilitated constitutions, as they create a healthy appetite, correct indigestion, remove bile, giddiness, headaches, and palpitation of the heart.

CHURGS, Colds, and Asthma.

No medicine will cure colds so quickly as these Pills, when of long duration or settled on the chest, or even though it has assumed the first stage of asthma, they may be relied on as a certain and never failing cure, particularly if the Ointment be rubbed into the chest and throat night and morning. If this catch the eye of any asthmatic person so bad as even not able to lie down in bed, let him well use these two preparations for only a week, and the result will be marvellous.

CHILDREN'S Complaints.

It is not generally known, but such is the fact, that children require medicine oftener than their parents, and four-tenths of the children die before they attain the age of eight years. Let mothers, then, be wise, and give to their children small doses of these invigorating Pills once or twice every week; in such quantity as may act gently upon the system twice in the twenty-four hours. For infants, a Pill may be crushed and given as a powder in a little water. The gross humors that are constantly floating about in the blood of children, the forerunners of so many complaints, will thus be expelled, and the lives of these children saved and preserved to their parents.

BLOOD to the Heart—Diseases of the Heart.

More persons die suddenly from diseases of the heart than the unfeared griping; in such cases, the bowels should always be kept well open, as also when there is a tendency of blood to the heart. These celebrated Pills purify the blood in an extraordinary manner, and should be taken in copious doses when such symptoms occur, taking care not to overload the stomach; by this means all danger is quickly averted.

One Hundred Persons.

For the entry of the names of newly arrived Canadians—a copy of which will be forwarded to the Toronto "Leader" and Montreal "Herald," for publication, by each mail, will be found at this Hotel.
